About me

Data engineer student, with around 2+ years of experience, i specialize on the front-end of software development (websites, desktop and mobile applications), i also have a fair amount of experience with databases, servers and building REST API's, but it's not my forte. I like to see myself as a builder more than just a programmer, understand the full scheme at the time of start a new project, rather than only make some pieces without understanding why, it's important to me, i like understanding and predicting how the full project will work once all the pieces and engines connect
